

AEI Intelligent Technologies, a division of Ace Electronics Inc., (herein "AEI") is an environmentally conscious company committed to staying aligned with the environmental directives and "green" policies being implemented worldwide. This includes the expanding lead-free initiative, the European ELV Legislation, the WEEE Directive, the RoHS Directive, as well as the forth-coming environmental policies from Japan and China.

This certificate is provided to customers and end-users of AEI. The following pages are Environmental Compliance certificates for all applicable AEI products, as indicated on the individual sheets.

AEI certifies product(s) listed as RoHS compliant is made with the Directive 2002/95/EC OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL of 27 January 2003, on the restriction and use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronics equipment ("RoHS"). As indicated, product may take an exemption provided in the RoHS Annex, Section 7. Indicated products covered under this exemption include: (1) Servers, storage and storage array systems, or (2) Network infrastructure equipment for switching, signaling, transmission as well as network management for telecommunications. Specifically, AEI's Fast Ethernet cards use the Intel GD82559 MAC/PHY chipset, which does contain lead solder inside the integrated circuit (IC) and on the BGA pads. All other components, solder, solder paste, etc. are in compliance with RoHS and WEEE thresholds.

Table 1 - Environmental Compliance Matrix

Part Number	RoHS Compliant	Pb-Free	JIG Level A	Date of RoHS Compliance
				Planned	Actual
AEI-1400C	Yes	Yes	Yes		15-Oct.2005

¹ Lead and other materials banned in the RoHS Directive are either (1) below all applicable substance thresholds as proposed by the EU or (2) an approved/pending exemption applies (Annex 7).

The product tables shown on the following pages are based on concentration levels at the homogenous material level, as defined by the EU Technical Adaptation Committee.
